<tr>
<td>Determine the reading purpose.</td>
<td>Every citizen should develop an awareness of how the U.S. government works and how laws are made so they can have a voice and participate fully in the governmental process.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Select reading strategies appropriate to the purpose.</td>
<td>Vocabulary building activities encourage students' development of word parts. Graphic organizers help to organize and present facts found while reading in a step by step process.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Monitor comprehension and adjust reading strategies.</td>
<td>Learners can check to make sure they have understood the big picture of ideas by creating a diagram.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Analyze information and reflect on its underlying meaning.</td>
<td>This organizational tool helps students break information down into essential parts and provides a method to organize details visually.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Integrate it with prior knowledge to address reading purpose.</td>
<td>The graphic organizer can help students remember or retell information. The role-play will allow students to apply skills gained during this lesson.</td>

<td>What are the three branches of government? Why is it necessary to have the three branches of government? How do citizens’ ideas become laws? Brainstorm as a class to decide what duties each branch carries out. Create a diagram showing the duties of each branch. Use Congress in the Classroom as an information resource. For those unfamiliar, explain that graphic organizers are a picture that shows how the ideas in a selection are related to one another. This might be in the form of a flowchart, tree diagram, or other picture that uses lines, boxes, and so on, to show how ideas connect. System of Checks and Balances Overhead would be one example. The class can also brainstorm on the process of how a bill becomes a law. The results of these brainstorming sessions should be saved to use later when students begin their group work.</td>

<tr>
<td>Step 1 - Teacher makes a 3 column chart related to the executive, judicial and legislative branches of government. Students brainstorm words they already know that relate to each branch and discuss their meaning. Use websites listed to find glossaries of words related to government. Continue to add to this list as students proceed throughout the lesson. Additional practice on vocabulary words can be accomplished by developing Word Sorts from the student list above. Students will work in small groups to create a crossword puzzle including clues and answers on the American Government. Class can use a crossword puzzle software program or use an online site, such as Puzzlemaker. Students will complete the crossword puzzles created by the small groups. They can choose to do this individually or with a partner.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Step 2 - Students will also fill out a graphic organizer of how a bill becomes a law, making sure to write the correct steps in the right places with descriptions of each step completed. Have several blank flowcharts available for pairs or triads to complete the steps. Students can research information online at How a Bill Becomes a Law or How Our Laws are Made or use available classroom or library resources. Report out and display charts when completed.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Inspiration is excellent software with graphic organizers.

Step 3 - Have the group decide on a bill that might become a law, something that would affect them directly. Discuss suggestions and pick one. Then divide the class into the House and the Senate, with the teacher as the President. Write the bill on a large sheet of paper and actually give it to the House to discuss. Do the same with the Senate. Create a simulation of how the process is carried out. A Supreme Court could also be chosen to judge its fairness.

Writing Standard Extension Discuss how students think they could influence the outcome of a bill and write a letter to the House or Senate about the bill they are simulating.

Step 4 - Discuss what students have learned about the government and about how laws are made. GED level students may wish to continue to explore this topic by choosing a law of interest to them (past or present) and investigating the history of that law on the Internet or at the library. For example, trace the history of the Civil Rights Laws of the 1960s. They can share their findings with the rest of the class by giving a group presentation, creating a Power Point presentation or designing a poster-diagram.

Next Steps
Voting issues would be a natural extension of this initial information about our government. How Government Works Learning Objects will give students additional practice with how a bill becomes a law and the three branches of government.

Purposeful/Transparent
Students are able to evaluate their strengths and gaps about how the government works as well as their use of graphic organizers during the reading process. Teachers are being explicit about using particular graphic aids to strengthen student’s reading ability.

Contextual
During the simulation, students actively apply the knowledge and skills acquired by previous study of how a bill becomes a law.

Building Expertise
During the role-play, students will reflect on what they’ve learned and apply this knowledge to a directly chosen issue about how laws are made.

About 10,000 bills are introduced per year. Each is given a number and assigned to a committee. There are 22 committees in the House of Representatives and 15 committees in the Senate.

BILL IS DRAFTED
Members of Congress, the Executive Branch, and even outside groups can draft (write or draw up) bills.

HOUSE
Bill is introduced and assigned to a Committee which refers to a Subcommittee. Only members can introduce bills.

SUBCOMMITTEE
Members study the bill, hold hearings, and debate provisions. Marks up the bill. If it passes goes to Committee.

COMMITTEE
Full Committee considers the bill. If it approves the bill in some form, the bill goes to the Rules Committee.

RULES COMMITTEE
It issues a rule to govern debate on the floor. Sends it to the Full House.

FULL HOUSE
Debates the bill and may amend it. If it is different from the House version, it must go to a Conference Committee.

FULL HOUSE
Votes on bill, if it passes it goes to the President.

PRESIDENT
Can sign or veto the bill. Congress can override it by 2/3 majority vote in the House and Senate. President can sign the bill, veto it or do nothing.

SENATE
Bill is introduced and assigned to a Committee which refers to a Subcommittee.

SUBCOMMITTEE
Members study the bill, hold hearings, and debate provisions. Marks up the bill. If it passes goes to Committee.

COMMITTEE
Full Committee considers the bill. If it approves the bill in some form, the bill goes to the Rules Committee.

FULL SENATE
Debates the bill and may amend it. If it is different from the House version, it must go to a Conference Committee.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE
Senators and Representatives meet to reconcile differences between bills. When agreement is reached, a compromise bill is sent to Full Senate.

FULL SENATE
Votes on bill, if passes it goes to the President.
